SANDALS OUTFITS RAMS FLAG FOOTBALL TEAM

THE Rams flag football team continues to shine in their new Sandals Royal Bahamian uniforms as they go into the playoffs. Rams Football, one of the community-based organisations partnered with Sandals, focuses on youth development through sports and has been developing young athletes through flag football over the past six years. Said Tarran Taylor, the team captain: "Our flag football club has become a real family and it's a real push for us when companies like Sandals assist us with our growth and development." Over the years the Rams have sent five students to American high schools to play football. And six students are off to universities in both the United States and Canada to play football, all on scholarships. Gary Williams, the general manager of Sandals Royal Bahamian, says: "It was our absolute pleasure to assist the young gentlemen with brand new uniforms. "We're proud to be involved in any youth-based organisation, especially ones aimed at lifting up grassroots young men and women." The Rams team practices at the Fort Charlotte field and games are held at the Winton Rugby Field on the weekends.
